

The effective teacher of mathematics

- should have a competency in the mathematics being taught as well as its prerequisites.
- must have the desire to learn mathematics.
- must have the desire to learn how to educate the students.
- must have the desire to learn how to supply the optimum mathematics environment for each student.
- continues to investigate new mathematical knowledge and effective teaching strategies.

⋮